

UNESCO school

UNESCO schools try to help with UNESCO's goals.
Now, there are UNESCO schools in over 180 countries.
There are 1037 UNESCO schools in Japan.
This is the most in one country.

“Join the UNESCO school merit”

But what are the advantages of joining the UNESCO school system?

One of them is to increase the chances of interacting with foreign people.
Information is also exchanged through UNESCO schools.

“UNESCO school member approval”

AKEBI applied to register on July 28, 2010.
So, AKEBI joined on October 28, 2010

“Activity at AKEBI's class”

First grade – Town watching.
Second grade – English camp.
Third grade – British Hills.
Fourth grade – Internship.
Fifth grade – Overseas field trip in America and Canada.

Also, AKEBI has done an exhibition of UNESCO in AKEBI's cultural festival.
It was planned and displayed to promote an understanding of solutions to things such as starvation and refugees. In addition, we can join many projects that let us go abroad.
A student who joined some of the projects said, “I think about Japan by joining some projects.”
